

FACT SHEET

655th Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance Group

The 655th Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance (ISR) Group is an Independent Group under the 10th Air Force, Air Force Reserve Command. Headquartered at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, the unit stood up as Detachment 2, 10th Air Force on 1 October 2012. On 28 September 2013, the unit was officially activated and re-designated the 655th ISR Group. The group consists of 14 Classic Associate Unit intelligence squadrons across seven different states conducting 10 different missions.

Mission

The 655th ISR Group ensures the training and readiness of Air Force Reserve Command intelligence squadrons engaged in highly technical, diverse, and complex Intelligence, Surveillance, and Reconnaissance mission sets.

Personnel

The unit consists of more than 1100+ Air Force Reserve and Department of the Air Force civilian personnel spanning more than a dozen Air Force specialties.

Organization

The 655th ISR Group is the headquarters and is co-located with three squadrons: the 64th Intelligence Squadron, responsible for human intelligence collection, the 71st Intelligence Squadron, responsible geospatial and measurement and signatures intelligence analysis, and the 14th Intelligence Squadron, which provides intelligence support to Air Force acquisitions. Three squadrons are located at Joint Base Langley-Eustis, Virginia: the 42nd Intelligence Squadron, responsible for targeting intelligence; and the 63rd and 718th Intelligence Squadrons, responsible for multi-discipline Distributed Common Ground System (DCGS) ISR operations. Beale Air Force Base, California is home to two of the group's squadrons, the 38th and 50th Intelligence Squadrons, responsible for multi-discipline DCGS ISR operations. Offutt Air Force Base, Nebraska is home to the 49th Intelligence Squadron, responsible for crypto linguistic intelligence support, and the 820th Intelligence Squadron, responsible for targeting intelligence. Ft Meade, Maryland is home of the 16th Intelligence Squadron, responsible for conducting signals intelligence, and the 512th Intelligence Squadron providing cyber ISR. The 28th Intelligence Squadron is located at Hurlburt Field, Florida, and is responsible for ISR support to Special Operations Forces. Finally, the 23rd Intelligence Squadron is located at Joint Base San Antonio, Texas, and also provides cyber ISR support.
